DUMFRIES, VA

May 2017

On May 1, 2017, the United States Army Cyber Command (ARCYBER) awarded a prime contract to CONCORD CROSSROADS, LLC (C3R) to provide support to their Protection Program. The C3R team will provide onsite full time support to the command's program. Claude A. Wood, President and CEO of C3R states, "Our team has provided programmatic support for the ARCYBER Program for the past five years. We are very happy that our customers have confidence in our program management and professionalism to continue with our services." The C3R team does not take our recent success for granted. Our expectation is that each day we will continue to earn our proven reputation. We look forward to providing the ARCYBER Command with outstanding services in the analysis, integration, management, and implementation of their Protection Program, and coordination in continued support of the mission.

We are driven to provide Antiterrorism Program Support for this worldwide Command. At every level of the Command, C3R provides principal tasks within the scope of the contract which are to serve as a General Staff Action Officer and Command Level Antiterrorism Officer; to develop and establish an Antiterrorism Program that communicates the ARCYBER Army Commander's intent of all Antiterrorism policies supporting the pillars of protection; to establish strategic operational planning; to conduct trend, process, and mission analyses; to execute Antiterrorism analysis and management of assessment programs, and to develop and manage the Antiterrorism training and exercises. Our continued success is based upon the expertise and knowledge of our subject matter experts, as well as our corporate leadership. The C3R team looks forward to serving the ARCYBER Command for the projected future.
